

- b) Medical control during the application of the therapy mat for medical treatment is suggested since in some cases a rise or drop in B.P. of the patient with cardiac arrhythmia (hypertonic diseases 2b) may be indicated.
2. The application of the therapeutic Detensor-Mat for medical treatment of muscular conditioning are conducted in specially furnished rooms. Additional arm retention bands are used to assume a comfortable position for the upper extremity during placement of the patient on the massage table due to the narrow width of the mat.
 3. The practical application of the „Detensor-Therapy“ for the treatment of cervical osteochondrosis and the associated scapular portion permit a redirection from the conventional treatment systems for cervical osteochondrosis by extension in water.

The team of physicians expresses great gratitude to Dr. Kurt Kienlein (the inventor of the Detensor-Method of the inclined rib configuration) in the name of the many human beings whose spinal ailments had been alleviated.

The method is congenially simple and accessible.

Respectfully,
